PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—A lady living on O'Farrell street, while trying to light a coal oil lamp this evening, accidentally ignited the fluid, and an explosion was the consequence. She caught her little child in her arms and ran into the street. Both were badly burned. Their names could not be learned.

There were two small fires in the city this afternoon. Damage, slight.

The Pacific Mail steamer Constitution arrived this morning from Panama, with 621 passengers.

There have been slight showers during the day, and to-night it is cloudy with a prospect of more rain.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—W. G. Gilbert sailed for Portland Saturday. He has leased, and will fit up in splendid style, Ankeny's new hall for the reception of a first class theatrical troupe.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—The suit of German bondholders against the California Pacific Railroad came up in the U. S. District Court to-day. Counsel for the defense filed objections, moving that an order to show cause be vacated and the petition dismissed. The ground of the objections is mainly technical.

J. H. Robinson, Assistant Solicitor of the Treasury Department, is now in the city. A formal demand has been made through his office on the Central Pacific Railroad Company for 5 per cent. of its net earnings since completion.

The Superintendent of the Palace Hotel has engaged a force of plasterers on the ten-hour rule, wages fixed at $4 per day. The plasterers of the city have formed a combination to defeat the ten-hour plan. The combination will fail, 150 men having already applied. In case of a deficiency, land will be sought east.

The Committee on Rules and Regulations of the Board of Education have reported in favor of a plan for compulsory education in schools in this city.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—In the Fifteenth District Court, James L. Eoff has brought suit against Leland Stanford to recover $700, and interest from July 1, 1873, due for services as driver and trainer of Occident.

The Board of Supervisors last evening elected Dr. Benk R. Swan, Coroner, vice John R. Rice removed.

Owing to the rain, the trot at the Bay District track will not come off on Thanksgiving Day.

At a late hour last night a shooting affray occurred in a saloon adjoining the Bella Union. E. Kenuke fired four shots at James Connelly, wounding him in the breast and back. His recovery is uncertain. Kenuke was arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—Rain ceased falling this morning, but the weather is still cloudy and threatening.

There have been no marine arrivals or departures to-day as the bar is rough and breaking.

Work on the Palace Hotel is temporarily suspended on account of bad weather.

Interior California.

R... ...a, Nov. 22.—The amount taken from Wells, Fargo & Co.'s treasure box was $2,300. The robber will undoubtedly soon be taken, as Sheriff Hall has a strong posse of men out, and the latest report from there is favorable.

EUREKA, Nov. 24.—A shooting affray at Fisk ...ask, 35 miles distant, on Sunday, between H. C. Festenmaker and Thomas Dixon, in regard to a settlement for work done by the latter in cutting hay on shares for the former, is related as follows: Festenmaker fired seven shots from two pistols and the contents of a double-barreled shotgun at Dixon, hitting him twice, but not inflicting any fatal wounds. Dixon shot three times at Festenmaker, one shot taking effect in the abdomen and another in the shoulder. Dixon was brought to town. Festenmaker, it is thought, will not survive. He is a dangerous man, and was wholly to blame for the shooting.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 24.—Everything is reported lively from Banner mining district. The Ready Relief mill is completed.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 24.—The schooner Horace, Capt. Lent, sailed this morning on a whaling cruise down the lower California coast. The sloop New Hope sails to-morrow on a whaling cruise. Both these vessels were very successful last season.

Reports from the interior show that a great deal more rain fell in the valleys and foothills than along the coast last week.

SAN LEANDRO, Nov. 24.—Damage was done by the late rains to the San Leandro dam. The lower part is carried away to such extent that it will require some thousands of dollars to replace it. The upper bridge is in danger of being carried away, on account of a large number of trees drifting down from Redwoods. By late advices from there we understand that through the exertions of Cabot and his men the bridge is now out of danger, they having cleared away the drift-wood, allowing a water pas...ge. No other damage by the flood, except to John Mathews' bulkhead, on San Leandro creek, which gave way in two places.

ARIZONA.

WICKENBURG, Nov. 23.—Messrs. Moore & Cotton, on returning from Prescott yesterday, found a man named Johnson, on summit of Antelope hill, dead, in the road and a saddled horse standing over the body. Johnson was a resident of Peoples valley and was last seen alive at Wilson's, on Saturday. The supposition is he died from excessive drink.

UTAH.

Bishop D... to be t... to Salt L... City.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 23.—Bishop Dame, lately arrested in Southern Utah and confined at Beaver, will be brought to this city for safe keeping. He is charged with being connected with the Mountain Meadow massacre.

Two more persons were fined to-day for alleged illegal voting. They, like others, voted on naturalization papers issued by the Probate Court.

Work is progressing rapidly on the Utah Southern and Utah Western R. R.

NEVADA.

An Editor Murdered.

TRUCKEE, Nov. 24.—G. B. Frink, who has been editor of the Truckee Republican for the last three years, was shot and instantly killed last night between 11 and 12 o'clock. He was supposed to be a member of the Vigilance Committee recently organized here, and met with his death, it is supposed, at the hands of one of the Vigilantes by mistake or accident. Shooter is unknown.

NEW YORK CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.—At the late election in the State of New York, certain amendments to the Constitution were submitted for ratification, most of which, it is thought, have been carried. One of these amendments extends the term of the Governor for two years and raises his salary to $10,000 per annum. Another limits the Legislative term to 100 days, and fixes the compensation for the term at $1,500, instead of $3 per day, as heretofore. Another permits the Governor to approve particular items of an appropriation bill, and to veto others. Still another restrains the power of the Legislature to pass private, local and special bills. These are among the amendments believed to have been ratified.

THE MASSACHUSETTS SENATORSHIP.—The general impression is that the Legislature is a sensible, independent body, and that it will avoid the tedious and discreditable scenes that took place in connection with the election of Mr. Washburn. The Transcript says: "We have no doubt that the Republicans will take the United States Senator from their own ranks, but no timorous politician, whose chief fear has been the frown of the now prostrate back-pay champion need apply."—N. Y. Times.

DR. KENEALY DISBARRED.—LONDON, Nov. 12.—Dr. Kenealy, in a letter excusing his non-attendance at a meeting of the bar, announces that he has been disbarred by Benchers of Gray's Inn.

A GRAND SCHEME.

[From the San Francisco Alta, Nov. 6th.]

How much will our Government give for British Columbia? That is a practical question to-day. The Dominion Cabinet refuses to offer assurances of a purpose to comply, so far as is practicable, with the promises made when the colony entered the Confederation; and the Colonial Administration and the people at Victoria will not be satisfied with such conduct. The bargain is broken, and British Columbia is morally free to make new arrangements. Whether her people would consent to leave the Dominion and enter the American Union, under any circumstances, cannot now be ascertained, but we consider it proper that they should understand that their company is desirable and valuable to us, and that we are able and willing to give them the means of developing the natural resources of the extensive region of which they are the custodians. By making their homes there, they have accepted the obligation of holding it first in their affections, and bearing its prosperity before that of any other country. On that principle only can we expect them to give favorable hearing to a word about annexation.

Their entrance into the Dominion was an error from the first, and adherence to it will be a mistake to the last. Canada has not the money to build the railroad nor the disposition to build it, nor the route over which to build it, nor the business to make it profitable, nor (what is more important than all the rest) the people to spare for British Columbia if it should be built. These are all material points, and yet the Canadian officials, in their sports as about the present crisis, say nothing about them, and those who mention the subject merely say, in general phrase, that the road will be finished as soon as it can be conveniently.

Without saying more at present about the inability of Canada to supply the wants of the Fraser Basin and Vancouver Island, we consider what our Government should do. What it would do nobody knows of a certainty, but we doubt not public opinion would favor very liberal action to secure such a prize as the coast between Washington Territory and Alaska. We think we do not err when we predict that Congress would bind itself to give Victoria railroad connection, by way of the Willamet and Sacramento valleys, within three years, and to complete within three years more, another line, running nearly in a direct course from New Westminster, either to Ogden, on the Union Pacific, or to some point on the Northern Pacific. The Northern Pacific would, in our judgment, be preferable, but as that enterprise is far from completion, and is in the hands of a company which might be involved in many difficulties, prudence dictates that an alternative should be provided, at least for a few years.

The railroad connection with New York by the Willamet and Secrattee to valleys, would require the construction of 250 miles of road, in the mountains of Northern California and Southern Oregon (for which Congress has already given a land grant of 12,800 acres per mile) the construction of 220 miles on the mainland in Washington Territory and British Columbia, and 70 miles on Vancouver Island, or about 570 miles. The cost would probably average about $40,000 per mile, or $23,000,000 in all. A road from Ogden to Whatcom, there connecting with the coast road, would be 500 miles long, and would cost $20,000,000. These two roads, one completed within three years and the other within six years, would be of far more service to British Columbia than any road that Canada can build; besides, they would be finished at least five years sooner, and time is of consideration of the highest importance. In addition, however, to those two roads, we would promise the completion of the Northern Pacific—at a probable cost of $40,000,000 more—thus giving a choice of routes, and securing the settlement of Montana and Idaho, and providing a trunk line, from which branches could be run out to drain the trade of the Saskatchewan basin.

Thus we would propose to incur an expenditure that might rise to $80,000,000, for the sake of getting British Columbia; but the roads built as a consideration, would run long distances in our present territory, and would attract population to and develop industry and wealth in Oregon, Washington, and other portions of our present territory, as well as British Columbia. We should be glad to have an expression of the public opinion on these points. They deserve attention.

A PRESIDENTIAL DELUSION.

[From the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin Radical.]

It is telegraphed from Washington that President Grant has expressed the opinion that the result of the recent election, so disastrous to the Republican party, has been caused by no fault of his, and no act of his personal administration. Perhaps all the blame upon the Republican members of Congress. If the President has expressed this opinion, we are surprised that he should be so short-sighted. Where he has traveled he has moved amid a circle of flattering friends, and therefore he has not understood in the least how the people feel toward some of the acts of his administration.

He has four members of his Cabinet—Fish, Robeson, Delano and Williams—who are as odious and unpopular as Cabinet officers could well be. Attorney-General Williams' administration of the Department of Justice has few defenders among the people. Doubtless he has friends at Washington, but very few in the country. It is this law officer who is supposed to have unfortunately involved the President in the troubled complications in Louisiana, by which the President felt ultimately compelled to sustain the Kellogg usurpation with United States soldiers.

It was correctly and pertinently said by Senator Carpenter more than a year ago, that if the Republicans of the North and West had to defend the Kellogg government, and its maintenance by United States bayonets, it would shiver the party to pieces. The prophecy has become a reality. The Republican press of Wisconsin during the past year has been much more independent than in any other section of the Union, in criticising the conduct of the national administration toward Louisiana, and we believe to-day that that very independence has been one of the causes of the recent Republican victory in Wisconsin.

THE PROSECUTION OF DELEGATE CANNON.—Salt Lake, Nov. 17.—Cannon's attorneys have found an old record of the Clerk of the First District Court, wherein the Clerk, now deceased, certifies that Dec. 7, 1854, Cannon, a native of Great Britain, took the oath. He came to this country under 18 years of age, and absolutely renouncing all allegiance to Queen Victoria, was made a citizen. Baskin proposes to show that the record is false.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 17.—The Tribune mentions this morning that if the unearthed record which accounts for the naturalization of Geo. Q. Cannon, on the 7th of December, 1854, is worth the paper on which it is written it will prove that the surviving witness who swore to his residence in the United States did then and there commit willful and corrupt perjury.

CALEB LYON OF LYONSDALE'S ACCOUNTS.—New York, Nov. 11.—A suit has been brought in the United States District Court against Wm. Gibson, of this city, who was surety on the bonds of ex-Governor Caleb Lyon, of Idaho, to recover $46,000 deficiency in the ex-Governor's accounts. Mr. Lyon, who was appointed by President Lincoln in 1864, claims that the amount in question was stolen from him while on his way to Washington to square up his accounts. The case came up to-day on motion to have it go off the term, as it is expected that the next Congress will pass a bill for the relief of Mr. Lyon. Judge Blatchford denied the motion.

TEN THOUSAND NEEDY PEOPLE IN NEW YORK CITY.—New York, Nov. 12.—The managers of St. John's Guild say that least 10,000 men and women are out of employment in New York City, and that whole families are without the necessaries of life. Hundreds gather at the Guild doors daily clamoring for food, and the treasury of the Guild, even to its reserve fund, is exhausted.

THE TERRITORIES.

Specimens of the sugar beet raised near Dayton, W. T., indicate that the vegetable can be grown there successfully.

A cigar store, owned by Mr. Sackenwitz, at Walla Walla, was robbed of $120 last week, and the thief got away without leaving a trace.

Idaho teamsters, at Winnemucca, are all on a strike here demanding five cents per pound. They are determined to take no freight at a less rate, and also threatened to raise the rates soon, if their demands are not met.

A notice was posted at the office of the Walla Walla and Columbia River Railroad Company to the effect that from the 11th inst. no more freight would be sent forward over the road from the Touchet station until further notice.

The New Methodist Church at Dayton, W. T., when completed, will be an ornament to the town. It is 50x32 with 20 foot ceiling and fine gallery. It is being lighted and ventilated in the most approved manner. This denomination seems to be imbued with the true spirit of enterprise.

Mr. A. Frank, of Walla Walla, just back from a trip to Silver City, reports times very lively in that locality. At South Mountain the Silver mines are yielding greatly beyond expectations, and as a result money is plenty and times lively. So greatly is Mr. Frank pleased with the outlook at Silver City that he intends to remove there with his family.

The Idaho World says: "The one thing most needed in Idaho Territory just now is a registry law, one with such pointed and stringent provisions that it can neither be evaded nor defied with impunity. With a wise registry law in force, fraudulent and illegal voting would be impossible. We hope the incoming Legislature will pass such a law."

The Walla Walla Spirit of Nov. 20th says: "Mr. Joseph Teal, of this city, having mysteriously disappeared on Tuesday of last week, his friends became alarmed for his safety and accordingly a thorough search for the missing man was instituted. On Saturday his lifeless remains were discovered in Mill creek, just opposite McCulley's mill, below the city. At the time of the discovery the body was lying near the bank, where the water was too shallow to more than just cover it. It is supposed that he had attempted to cross the stream and, being quite old and feeble, had fallen into the water and, being unable to help himself, had thus strangled to death. In his pockets was found the sum of $37 20, which is probably all that he had with him at the time. Also his watch was found upon his person. These circumstances, together with the fact that he bore no marks of violence, is conclusive evidence that there could have been no foul play in the matter. Mr. Teal has been a resident of Umatilla county, Oregon, for many years, where, by persevering industry, he had accumulated a respectable fortune. He had but recently moved his family into town for the purpose of educating his children. Mr. Teal was a man possessed of a kind, genial disposition, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him, and his untimely death will be deeply lamented by his many friends and a large family which he leaves behind. His age was about 65 years."

The Walla Walla Statesman of last week, says: Late news from the Kootenai informs us that Judge Rushby has left for his home at New Westminster. Pernie, of the lands and works department, has closed work for the season. The road on this side of the line is in a bad condition with timber, owing to the late storms. The Kootenai Indians have arrived; their killed thousands of buffalo; they have been joined by the Spokane and Pen d'Oreille Indians; they had a fight with the B's a few days, and several were killed. The Kootenais report the whisky business very lively at the Fort called Whoop-up. This Fort contains a hard crowd of citizens or cosmopolites. Snow is about two inches deep all the way and very cold. Frank McMahan's train has closed work for the season; he has got down in good time. The first ranch opened in the Kootenai country was sold to a missionary for $1,100 cash. Galbraith & Wood's mill is in active operation getting out lumber. Beef sells for 8c; flour, $7 50 per cwt.; potatoes, 2½c. A man named Whyte escaped from this place; he has gone toward Montana; he was charged with perjury and robbery. The season is blessed with the usual success in mining operations. The news from the Columbia (Government) prospecting party, report diggings below How's Pass, $3 to $4 per day; other parties have not been heard from yet. The prisoner, a half breed, for whom President Grant issued a requisition, still resides at Kootenai.

GENERAL NOTES.

A Baptist church in Gallatin, Tenn., has decided that a Granger cannot remain a member of that church while he is a member of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry. The ground assumed by the church is that the Patrons of Husbandry is a secret order.

A gentleman named Walter Greenwood, residing near Milwaukee, was recently struck blind. After remaining in total darkness for a week, his sight returned perfectly unimpaired. The gentleman was in the navy during the war, and suffered blindness for five months from amaurosis.

In Wisconsin, the other day, a wedding procession and a funeral procession met and got so badly mixed that half the people living near the scene declare that they saw a funeral procession accompanied by a brass band, while the other half are ready to swear that a wedding procession passed, headed by a hearse.

A boy named Brigham, at Springfield, died a few days ago, from the effects of a very singular injury. It appears that while playing at school another boy threw a stone which struck Brigham upon the foot, so affecting the nerves that the injury was communicated to the spinal cord, and in a few days the lad was dead.

It is understood that as Mr. David Dudley Field has returned from Europe he will be called before Judge Davis to bear his share of the fine imposed upon the lawyers of Tweed for alleged contempt of Court. Mr. Field was one of these lawyers censured by Judge Davis, but was absent from the city when the action of the Court was announced. This will bring up an interesting legal question.

The Dallas (Texas) Commercial says: "As the Presidential party were coming down through this nation they stopped at Gibson's Station for dinner. While seated at the table a six-foot Texan came in and took a survey of the party. 'Which is Grant?' said he. The Chief Magistrate was pointed out to him. He then took a look at Sheridan, Augur, Babcock, etc., and exclaimed, 'Give me $5 and I'll clean out the whole party.'"

Sixty gaily decorated Swedish and Norwegian vessels lay in New York harbor week before last, on the occasion of the annual celebration of the union of Norway and Sweden. The officers of the shipping were invited ashore by the resident Northmen, and a banquet, with oration and music and dancing, marked the festive hour, tipping off with the rendering of the national song written by Bjornstjerne Bjornson, Sweden's greatest poet. The exquisite melody of the opening lines cannot fail to ravish every American ear:

Det er Jubel nu i Norder,
Kæmpe Bueger kring,
Der, hvor Ueda Lyn og Tordur
Raade engang.

Mrs. Flanagan, of Philadelphia, who is a daughter of Judge Strong, of the United States Supreme Court, is said to have received the most valuable wedding presents of all the brides this season. Among her gifts was a $10,000 set of silver and gold, a $5,000 pair of diamond earrings, a $5,000 set of pearl, and four India shawls.

A Paris letter says that not long ago a gentleman on coming home from the theater was surprised at the hubbub in the porter's lodge. He soon learned the cause—his mother-in-law had suddenly expired. He invited the persons present to note that he had just returned from the theater, as he wished to be in a position to establish an alibi.

OREGON.

Circuit Court for Polk county is in session this week.

Drain Station, in Douglas county, needs a flouring mill.

A Douglas county man killed seven deer in one day, recently.

Gov. Grover has appointed A. N. Gambill, of Portland, a Notary Public.

Two Chinamen had $450 stolen from them near Roseburg on Wednesday of last week.

Marion county's new Court House leaks so badly that the county officials are complaining.

Thos. Jackson, confined in the jail at Roseburg on a charge of horse-stealing, tried and came near getting out a few days ago.

It is reported that Chaplain McCabe has given $2,500 towards the liquidation of the indebtedness of the M. E. Church at Salem.

Salem's Progress Club has elected the following officers: President, John Chase; Vice President, C. D. Snyder; Secretary, Manny Meyer; Treasurer, Robert Scott; Board of Directors, E. C. Riggs, Woodville Munkers and Lewis E. Thompson.

Rev. Mr. Van Horn, chaplain of the U. S. Army, delivered a very interesting lecture at Oregon City last Monday evening, on the Battles of Look Out Mountain and Missionary Ridge. The lecture was given for the benefit of the Oregon City Library.

Mr. David R. Jones arrived at Jacksonville from east of the mountains on business with the Circuit Court. He informs the Times that the roads are rough and that considerable rain has fallen, but that the snow is not very deep as yet. Camp Warner seems to have been abandoned for all time, which action is severely deprecated by the settlers. The Indians from the reservations in Jackson county are abundant, and there are some from the Malheur reservation. It is no doubt their intention to stay in Warner valley all winter. There being no troops to keep them in awe, they will be liable to prove more troublesome than formerly.

ROBBING CHURCHES.—Bishop Cheney, of Chicago, and his new church, have experienced a financial reverse. The Times says the treasurer of the society has not paid strict attention to the precepts taught from the pulpit, and as a consequence, finds himself a bankrupt and unable to make good the account of the church, some seven thousand dollars. His chief trouble seems to have been that he used the church funds in private speculations, probably with the intention of making restitution, but misfortune overtook him and the church is minus a snug little sum, while Bishop Cheney is out of pocket a round thousand dollars besides.

RITUALISM AT WASHINGTON.—A dispatch to the N. Y. Times, dated Washington, Nov. 8, says: "The new canon aimed at Ritualism, adopted by the Episcopal Convention, has had a noticeable effect in St. John's Church in this city, where Ritualistic tendencies have been for some time developing, and the singing of the Creed, which had been practiced, was this morning discontinued."

TAXABLE PROPERTY OF MASSACHUSETTS.—The Boston Journal publishes the annual statement of the real and personal estate of all the towns of Massachusetts. The total taxable valuation of the State, exclusive of personal property and deposits in savings institutions, is $1,831,601,165, a gain of $68,171,185 over last year. Only three counties report a loss.

Oliver Charlick, the Police Commissioner of New York city, over whom the papers of that city fought so fiercely a few months ago, is lying dangerously ill at Long Branch.

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 25, 1874.

SOMETHING ABOUT RECORDS.

A few weeks ago Mr. Joseph Medill purchased a majority of the stock in the Chicago Tribune, and becoming possessed of a controlling voice in its management assumed editorial control. Instantly the faithful organs of the Administration in all parts of the country raised a paean of triumph over the return of the Tribune to the party fold. It was heralded as a notable conversion to the fast dying doctrine of rule by ring and caucus, and hailed as a confession of the impracticability and wickedness of independent journalism. The truth of the matter is that the change was purely a business transaction. If it had any significance it was as an illustration of the power of money in politics. In a salutation to his readers, a compend of which has appeared in the OREGONIAN, Mr. Medill assures us that there can be no such thing as independent journalism. Without discussing the possibilities, we will content ourself with remarking that there is such a thing and that it pays. Even Mr. Medill was candid enough to confess that his predecessor, Mr Horace White, had conducted the Tribune with such ability and success as to extort the admiration of those who most bitterly opposed his policy. Confronting the dogmatic assertion of Mr. Medill were those sturdy facts, the New York Tribune, Sun and Herald, the Cincinnati Commercial, the Chicago Times, the St. Louis Republican and hundreds of papers of lesser note. Indeed, so strong a hold has the idea of independent journalism taken upon the press of the United States, that the appellation "independent" is universal, and "organ" exceptional.

After strumming Mr. Medill's organ tune through a half column of passable rhetoric, the Bulletin addresses the argumentum ad hominem to the OREGONIAN in a paragraph which invites comparison of the records made by the two papers within the past two years. We quote:

> They [correspondent newspapers] can do the party with nothing good, and attribute to it everything bad. It can do no act which they will commend. Not a single measure of the Republican party, so far as we can recollect, has the OREGONIAN commended since the last Senatorial election.

Let us examine that. As to national politics, the OREGONIAN "commended" the humane policy and moderation of the Administration in the matter of the Virginius massacre. It approved the veto of the bill looking to the addition to the currency of $400,000,000 of irredeemable paper money. It approved the action of the President at the beginning of the Louisiana difficulty. These were all matters of moment. We can state just as succinctly what the OREGONIAN did not "commend."

It did not "commend" the Credit Mobilier robbery; the District of Columbia steal; the Salary Grab; the Jayne and Sanford money thefts; the nomination of Mr. Richardson to the bench of the Court of Claims; the renomination of Boss Shepherd; the nomination of Mr. Williams to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States after his complicity with the Oregon Ring in their endeavors to protect a gang of repeaters and bribers [illegible] laws had been clearly established. It did not "commend" the voluntary testimonials of President Grant to public servants who had been driven from high position for gross incapacity or corruption. It did not "commend" the cowardly refusal of Congress to guarantee a republican government to Louisiana, and relieve the long-suffering South of the burden of taxation, the fraud and the villainy which lie at the bottom of much of the social disorder which has for two years disgraced the history of the South. It did not "commend" the sham of Civil Service Reform which came to be such a sad humbug that Geo. William Curtis and Joseph Medill—the very authority quoted by the Bulletin—retired from the Board in anger and disgust. It did not approve of the recent prostitution of the Department of Justice in its employment as an engine of oppression and [illegible] rule, to terrorize the South and perpetuate the disastrous rule of [illegible] and of Kellogg. It did not "commend" the sending of agents paid out of the national treasury into the Southern States to fabricate false reports of outrages, to use in Northern elections. It did not "commend" a Third Term.

In short, [illegible] the OREGONIAN opposed the attempt to saddle upon the Republican party the character of a man whose public and private life reeked with the foulest crimes. It did not "commend" the [illegible] bribery and repeating by which a ring of selfish politicians sought to hinder fair and honest elections; the removal and attempted humiliation of a faithful officer whose sole offense was that he sought to enforce the laws against a horde of political desperadoes, the Custom House building frauds and smuggling shared in by members of the Ring; the appointment from the ranks of that same ring to the Collectorship of Alaska of a felon—a murderer and fugitive from justice, the attempt to swindle the General Government by the payment of $50,000 for the purchase of an assay office in this city which would not bring $5,000 at private sale, the [illegible] of our courts of justice to the service of Ben Holladay. In fine, the OREGONIAN has steadfastly and conscientiously opposed Butlerism in whatever shape or form, in national, State and municipal politics. That is our record, and we are proud of it.

All these things the Bulletin has persistently and doggedly endorsed. To some it has given a silent acquiescence, to the worst of them it has been apologist and champion. Now it is an "independent Republican journal!" It belongs to that cowardly tribe of sycophants who quietly submitted to or audaciously supported the endeavor to Butlerize our free institutions through fear of his far-reaching influence; but who, now that he is prostrate and helpless, jeer at and anathematize him. The ruinous defeat which has overtaken the Republican party is directly traceable to the subserviency of a party press which, through lust for power and awe of patronage, drew shame on an illustrious record and brought low its haughty banners in twenty States.

A REMARKABLE CRIME.

William E Udderzook, the murderer of Winfield S. Goss, was executed at Winchester, Pennsylvania, on the 13th inst. The circumstances of his crime were so peculiar that they will not be forgotten—by the insurance companies, at all events.

On the night of the 2d of February, 1872, a shop in Baltimore, Md., occupied jointly by Goss and Udderzook (who had married sisters) was burned. From the ruins were taken the charred remains of a human body, which Udderzook pretended to identify as the remains of Goss, on whose life there was an insurance of $25,000. Suit was at once brought by the widow against the insurance companies and a verdict was rendered in her favor for the amount claimed. But the insurance companies were not satisfied that the claimants husband really perished in the flames. Pending a motion for a new trial, intelligence was received of an atrocious murder committed in Bair's Woods, Chester county, Pennsylvania. Detectives speedily discovered that Udderzook was connected with this crime, and that the victim was Winfield S. Goss. The murderer had endeavored first to burn the body; afterwards he mutilated it fearfully and buried the parts in different places. The original suits were abandoned by Goss' widow, and Udderzook was indicted for murder, and brought to trial on the 29th of October, 1873. The evidence against the prisoner, all of it circumstantial, was overwhelming. It appeared that Udderzook and Goss conspired to defraud the insurance companies; that the latter absented himself from Baltimore on the night of the fire; that the body found in the fire was a corpse which had been placed in the shop by Udderzook, who set fire to the building, that the murderer and his victim were seen entering Bair's woods together, and that Udderzook, after the first scheme failed, had attempted to persuade his brother-in-law, one Rhodes, to take part in the murder.

The evidence for the defense was insignificant, although Udderzook's counsel made a strong effort. In opening the defense, Wayne McVeigh, leading counsel, depicted the helplessness of his client in the following strong language:

> I find arrayed here four insurance companies, the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, detectives, the public press, and the Treasury of this county, are all against one poor man, whose hands are tied, and who is borne down with wife and children. This man comes here with the irons upon his wrists, which have long since been upon his opportunities of defense, and is told by these powers arrayed against him that if he can prove his innocence on the face of all the influences and the prejudice they have raised, he may be allowed to escape with his life.

The trial lasted ten days, and after being out for thirty-six hours the jury returned a verdict of murder in the first degree. An appeal was made to the Board of Pardons but after careful consideration a pardon was refused. Udderzook maintained his innocence to the last, declaring that he was murdered by the insurance companies.

Hitherto, ten dollars per annum has been the subscription price of the Bulletin. Finding that people will not purchase, the editor has determined to give his daily paper away to any one who will read it. That is what we understand by this paragraph, taken from the editorial columns of that paper yesterday:

> If the "Inquirer" of the OREGONIAN wants to take a paper which dares to defend the right, under all circumstances, without personal animosity to opponents or disgusting partisanship for friends, then let him subscribe for the Bulletin. Terms, three dollars; cash in advance.

Wonder what exchange Gaston stole that idea from.

McJunkin has resigned. For the benefit of those benighted people who may never have heard the euphonious name before, we will say that McJ is a Republican statesman, and that he was elected to Congress from Butler county, Pennsylvania, in 1872. He must be a modest, and he is evidently a retiring man, for his name has appeared in print but once since his election. Then he was mentioned in an Oregon Custom House organ as a guest at one of Senator Hipple-Mitchell's soirees. He is not to be censured for that; it may be only one of those "youthful indiscretions" for which Butler county has become famous.

Professor Gabb, the well-known naturalist, has just sent to the Smithsonian Institute, from Costa Rica, the most complete collection of specimens in natural history that was ever received from that region. It is said to surpass the very extensive collection made by Lieutenant Gillis in many respects. The collection embraces birds, fish, reptiles and mammals peculiar to the tropics, and is considered a great addition to the attractions of the Smithsonian.

Since the Patriot died, Democracy has had no daily organ at the National Capital. It is now proposed to start a morning paper devoted to the interests of that party. Captain Burritt, present editor of the Sunday Herald, is projector of the enterprise, and is to be editor of the new machine. It is said that Geo. Alfred Townsend is to be one of the grinders, and that the paper will appear about the first of January.

The Nevada Legislature contains seventy-member, politically classified as follows: Senate—Republicans 17, Democrats 7, Independents 1. Assembly—Republicans 38, Democrats 16, Independents 3. Republican majority on joint ballot, 20. The Republican majority, it is believed, insures the election of Wm. Sharon to succeed Wm. M. Stewart, U. S. Senator.

Christian, the notorious "body-snatcher," who was convicted of robbing a cemetery and sentenced to imprisonment in Washington City last fall, has recently been caught at his old tricks. Within thirty days after his pardon the scoundrel is detected in stealing bodies from the Freedmen's Hospital, for shipment to a Cincinnati medical college.

The Chicago Times is very much shocked at the religious professions uttered by Udderzook, the noted murderer, on the scaffold. But its refined tastes do not prevent it from heading a sensational account of the execution of Udderzook and the other criminals "Triplets—contributed by the Pennsylvania Gallows to the Ranks of the Angels."

The First and Second Internal Revenue districts of Virginia have been consolidated into one, by order of the Secretary of the Treasury, the consolidated district to be known as the First District. The Collector of the Second District is retained, the Collector of the First retiring.

The Secretary of the Navy, it is said, contemplates making general changes in naval regulations, one of which will be the changing of the title of "Commandant of Midshipmen" to "Commandant of Cadets."

BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG.

A VERY INTERESTING LECTURE ON THE ABOVE NAMED SUBJECT, DELIVERED AT MUSEUM HALL BY GEN. O. O. HOWARD.

Museum Hall was densely crowded last evening on the occasion of the fourth lecture of the course delivered by Gen. O. O. Howard, on the subject of the "Battle of Gettysburg." A larger, more intelligent and refined audience one does not often see gathered in Portland than was present last evening. The lecture occupied something over an hour and a quarter; but during that period the interest did not flag for one moment, but rather increased. It was a wide field to traverse, but the speaker passed from one point to another rapidly and commanded the undivided attention of every person in the audience. So rapidly and concisely did the General review the ground, that he managed to invest all the details of the great sanguinary conflict with interest. Two large maps were used by the lecturer in illustrating the subject. On these maps were marked the town of Gettysburg, the roads, streams, hills, plains, and the positions of the Confederate and Federal lines, for an area of fifteen miles or more. During the course of the lecture the speaker could point out on the maps the exact localities, and the movement of the various divisions. The General interspersed his lecture with numerous incidents, some of which were of a laughable character, and others really touching. Frequent and prolonged applause attested appreciation on the part of the large audience.

THE LECTURE.

The General commenced by referring to the state of the country between the battles of Chancellorville and Gettysburg.

There was great depression and discouragement in the North; the war seemed to be indefinitely prolonged, the peace men had gained victories at the polls and were calling to the administration to make the best terms obtainable and let us have peace.

On the other hand the Confederacy seemed to have a new lease of life. Chancellorville, and other successes, brightened the Southern sky, quickened the morale of the army, attained all enlistments, so that the Army of Virginia was never fuller nor in better condition, except perhaps in the quantity of supplies. These necessarily diminished as the producers were called or forced into the Confederate ranks.

The offensive-defensive kind of warfare had become a necessity—that is, "push into the enemy's territory and on his approach await him on good, well chosen ground." We always did this when we could. The enemy had been successful in this on many well remembered fields. "Go North with sufficient strength, the friends of the South in Maryland and Pennsylvania could show themselves, the Democracy of the North be encouraged, victories secured against Union troops, and perhaps France and England seeing the gigantic proportions of the struggle on the increase would follow His Holiness the Pope in his recent recognition of the new Government. These and much greater results were doubtless hoped for—judging by the fears of our friends of the North that manifested themselves when Gen Lee set out for a visit to their homes.

The army of Gen. Lee moved by its left flank through the Shenandoah valley, Stonewall Jackson's old corps, under Gen. Ewell, on the lead. He surprises Gen. Milroy with his 10,000 men and sends them flying. This time the commander at Harper's Ferry sensibly retires his 11,000 to the Maryland Heights; the coast is clear. Lee crosses his command into Maryland, his infantry and artillery at Williamsport, his cavalry subsequently at Seneca making a turn around our entire army after the fashion of American cavalry "raiding." Meanwhile Gen. Hooker swings around the inner circle, covering Washington and watching Gen. Lee through the gaps in the Blue Ridge by his cavalry, moving by different roads, but so as to be able to concentrate should the enemy turn to visit his old haunts at Bull Run, Centerville, Leesburg, &c., and threaten Washington. As soon as Lee's movement is clearly defined, Hooker crosses at Edward's Ferry and pushes on to Frederick. He demands the troops at Harper's Ferry under Gen. Couch. Gen. Halleck at Washington refuses. Gen. Hooker, thinking doubtless that this refusal is an expression of want of confidence in his judgment, very properly lays his resignation before the authorities. Gen. Geo. G. Meade, a tried soldier, an indefatigable commander, is put in his place.

Gen. Lee's troops in Pennsylvania had been considerably scattered to gather supplies and perhaps in a tentative way, looking in upon such proud places as Carlisle, Harrisburg and York. All that section of Pennsylvania below the Susquehanna will long tell you curious stories of this terrible visitation. The 30th of June, 1863, found him concentrating his troops toward a common center—Gettysburg. Gen. Meade was feeling cautiously for the enemy's exact presence, and hoping to concentrate in a well selected position on Pipe Clay creek, 20 miles southeast of Gettysburg. His left three corps—the 1st Reynolds, the 11th Howard, and the 3d Sickles—were located respectively at Marsburg, 6 miles south of Gettysburg, at Emmitsburg, 10 or 11 miles, and at some place some 12 miles south from Emmitsburg. The 6th (Sedgwick) at Manchester, the Right; the 2d (Hancock) at Taneytown; the 12th (Slocum) and the 5th (Sykes) at Two Taverns and Hanover.

The first day (July 18, 1863) orders from Gen. Meade passed Gen. Howard, at daylight, en route to Gen. Reynolds. As soon as received, Gen. Reynolds sends to Howard to move towards Gettysburg. The 11th corps is set in motion at once. Barlow's division by the direct road, Shurtz and Steinwher's divisions by a mill road to the right. Gen. H. then goes on himself to Gettysburg. The infantry battle had just begun. Gen. Reynolds' aid met him and asked to have his troops (the 11th corps) hurried up. Gen. H. visits the "Cemetery ridge," then an elevatory (Fahnstock's) in town. While on this, Gen. Reynolds death is reported. The speaker spoke of Gen. R. in the highest terms and defends him against unjust critics. His boldness was necessary. With Gen. Buford's cavalry leading, the pioneering and forming the eligible duty of the [illegible] Gen. H. points out the position of the troops engaged and the place of Reynolds' death, on his map.) Speaks of Gen. Fairchild's charge and capture of eight hundred men of Archer's command—of Gen. Doubleday's gathering up a part of a Mississippi brigade (Davis's). When Gen. B[illegible]'s aids reported his death, Gen. H. assumed command of the field, by 11:30 A. M. Sends words to all commanders—back to Shurtz and Barlow and Sickles—and through the latter on to General Meade, and very soon borne eastward to General Sherman. About 12 M., Shurz arriving, is directed to place one division (Steinwher's) on Cemetery Hill, with reserve artillery; the other two divisions, with two batteries, as nearly as possible on the right of the first corps. General H. describes the silence of the town. One person, a young lady, has the courage to appear on a piazza and wave her handkerchief to the troops, the soldiers shouted, and tears shone in manly eyes. Soon Ewell's corps appeared from the north and northwest. Shurtz' order to seize a blight on the Seminary or Oak ridge was countermanded, skirmishers found it occupied. The troops joined battle. The opening behind the corps, where the batteries worked, was soon filled with the enemy. Lieut Bayard Wilkinson, commanding one battery, was killed. The right flank was not far enough to the right, and Doubleday's left was not far enough to the left to meet such vastly superior numbers. Orders were sent to Gens. Shurtz and Doubleday to retire, disputing every foot of ground. A brigade (Costar's) was placed near the front of the town to cover the retreat. The cavalry was sent to the left to make a show of force. It was, indeed, more like a rout than a retreat. About 4 P. M the troops came over the Cemetery Hill. Gen. Hancock joined about this time. "Gen. Meade sent me to represent him." "All right! You take the left and I the right of the pike." Steinwher's line was extended southward by the first corps, Hancock taking one division (Wadsworth's) over to Culp's hill, the enemy strike for the right of Steinwher; his battery then breaks his head of column. The battle here stops, except skirmishing. Many wounded are left beyond the lines, and many prisoners were lost in the town, where the streets were clogged with artillery and men from two corps. Gen. H. describes the scene of Mrs General Barlow crossing the lines to her husband. He speaks of Lieut. Bayard Wilkinson—of his gallantry, of his father's sore bereavement.

THE SECOND DAY—JULY 2D, 1873.

Generals Sickles and Slocum, with the 3d and 11th corps, had arrived the night of the 1st and had been placed along the cemetery "horse-shoe," now so well known. General Meade came about 3 A. M. of the 2d of July. He and Gen. Howard rode together along the lines at the first dawn; Gen. M commends his disposition; glad that Gen. Sickles and himself think it "a good position," for it is too late to think of retreating, etc. The 6th Corps, the last to arrive, was on the ground by 2 P. M. (Gen. H. points out the positions of the several corps, from Slocum on the right to Sickles on the left—indicating Sickles' advanced position.) The battle commences between 3 and 4 P. M., first a short cannonade, followed by an infantry attack upon our left. Gen. Lee explains the point of attack in a few simple words: "It was determined to make the principal attack on the enemy's left and endeavor to gain a position from which it was thought that our artillery could be brought to bear with effect."

Gen. Howard shows how Gen. Sickles' position delayed the enemy while the 5th Corps came into position upon Round Top and Little Round Top. He gives incidents of the battle; the loss of the peach orchard; the desperate struggle at Little Round Top; the death of Gen. Zook, Colonels Vincent, Willard and Cross, commanding brigades, the struggle at Bigelow's battery; five sergeants and twenty-five men placed hors du combat and Bigelow wounded; Gen Wood, commanding artillery brigade; Lieut. Hazlet falls across his body while gathering his last whispered words.

The second day did not leave Meade's army very buoyant for an evening engagement had taken the unoccupied rifle pits of the right, had broken through the center and been repulsed with considerable difficulty. This boldness at the close of so closely contested a field made responsible hearts rather heavy as they lay down in the graveyard for a brief rest.

THE THIRD DAY—JULY 3D, 1863.

The final struggle began early, between 4 and 5 A. M., the musketry heavy on our right. It took a battle of nearly five hours for Gen. Slocum to regain his line, left vacant by reinforcing Sickles the day before. (The trees and stones still show evident marks of that conflict.) Then a lull till 1 P. M., when the grand artillery battle began and continued at least one and a half hours; then the final charge of Pickett's Division, well supported, met by the 2d, 3d and parts of the 5th and 6th Corps. Gen. Howard speaks of the death of a young artilleryman: Cheerful and hearty, singing and whistling at his work; he is struck, gives one cry and is no more!

The appearance of the field after the battle: Vast numbers of wounded are waiting their turn—individuals saved by the Sanitary and Christian Commissions. The closing incident is a cavalry charge on a reconnoissance, in which Capt. Griffith, of Gen. Howard's staff, is mortally wounded and left at Gettysburg, his last interview, the beauty of Griffith's character, and the cheerful Christian fortitude he exemplified at death's door. The General closes. Gens. Meade, Sedgwick, Wadsworth and Reynolds are no more. Never be hypercritical in speaking of any of these men. They were conscientious, brave and devoted. The battle they fought saved the integrity of our country and cleared it of slavery. All honor to them and the brave soldiers—whose name is legion—who did their duty on the field at Gettysburg. I never speak disparagingly of our foes. I did and do admire their prowess, their spirit of devotion, their sacrifice, while I rejoice, of course, that they failed to dismember the Republic.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE THEATER.—There was a decided falling off in the attendance at Ore Fino Theater last evening. The weather was disagreeable enough to keep the most inveterate theater-goer at home. "Camille," Matilda Heron's own play, was presented. That every detail of the drama was carried out faithfully and entirely up to the author's conception, it would be hardly just to claim. The leading characters in the hands of Mr. Sawtelle and Madame Phelps were in a great measure faithfully portrayed. Mr. Sawtelle did not seem to invest with the required interest the character (Armand Duval) in the earlier portion of the play, but as it progressed he played with spirit and dramatic power, and the audience showed their appreciation of the acting by rapturous applause. Mrs. Phelps did very well with so difficult a part as "Camille," and Messrs. Crowell and Barrows were, as usual, attentive in the roles allotted to them. Our space will not permit of extended mention. Mr Sawtelle will appear in his specialty "Rip Van Winkle" this evening, for his benefit. Miss Louise Irving has kindly volunteered to sing. Mr. Sawtelle has won many friends, who will, no doubt, turn out in full force on the occasion.

Don't forget to call at Quinn's, Washington street, and get your fresh oysters for your Thanksgiving dinner. Shoalwater Bay oysters cleanly opened and delivered for fifty cents a hundred.

PAUSE WHILE YOU READ THIS! The season for parties and balls has arrived and the cold dreary days and nights of winter will soon visit us. Every young man, old man and boy, for that matter, likes to present a fine appearance when attending parties, the theater, or walking about the streets. They likewise desire to be well provided against the cold blasts of snow and rain. What contributes more to the personal appearance and comfort of a gentleman, or boy, than a nice, closely fitting suit of clothes, set off with a heavy warm overcoat? Why will any one be so foolish as to go, without either, when BECK & WALDMAN have everything in that line. Beck & Waldman in laying in their immense fall and winter stock of Clothing, have exercised great care, and selected with reference to the demands of trade. They have purchased their goods low and are determined not to be undersold. Let the public note this fact.

The great Frenchman, Altaroche made specialties of irony and sarcasm in all his writings, but JOHN O'NEIL & CO. make specialties of selling the finest clothing, underwear, cravats, ties and hats at unparalleled low prices. For a winter suit theirs are of the best, and get yourself dressed and be at rest. This is not irony or sarcasm, but stubborn fact, as everybody will find out who goes to their store. Naked truth is good, but people can't go about in that way and must have clothing, and the supplies received by this firm are just what are wanted for the season.

Dr Steele's Medical Wonder has stood the test of time as the cure for rheumatic and other pains, as well as colds, coughs, cramps, &c. Taken with Wonder Pills for liver complaints, kidney disorders and impure blood. For sale everywhere.

TO THE LADIES OF PORTLAND.

MRS W. N. WALLACE has established a first class DRESSMAKING ESTABLISHMENT in one of the new and Elegant Rooms on Stark Street, between First and Second, at which place she would respectfully solicit your patronage.

FASHIONABLE OUTFITS.—Attention is again called to the extraordinary opportunities which are just now being afforded by the extensive clothing house of JOS KOHN, opposite National Bank. There is no place in the State where a larger or finer assortment both for gentlemen, boys and children will be found. At all times their prices have been the lowest known to the market, but at the present time it will be found that they have been greatly reduced. Mr. Kohn keeps constantly on hand a large and superior stock of furnishing goods and underwear.

THANKSGIVING AND FAST DAYS.

These days have been most frequently set apart, and most diligently observed in—of war.

Praising God for victory is right; but surely it is no less our duty to praise him for peace. Some writer has said that the next saddest event that can happen any nation to a defeat is a bloody victory. Visions of men marshaled against each other by the hundreds of thousands, making the very ground tremble beneath their tread, may seem romantic to the poet and thrilling to the reader of history, but its actual results are terrific. Costly in blood and treasure have been our greatest achievements in arms. Think of the noble slain. Think of the desolate homes. Think of the social wastes and political convulsions that are rife even to this day.

Multitudes have died since the late internecine war, in whom the seeds of death were sown in the Nation's struggle.

There is a strange fascination in military glory, and a just gratitude for the loyal defense of the country. How would our paeans of victory ring on Thursday next had we been the conquerors of a rebellion during the past year. Or, if France, England, China or Germany had turned invaders and had been now beneath our conquering hosts, how would our thronging churches praise the Lord? With deference due to the noble men of valor, may we not ask have we not in peace as great an incentive to praise?

Surely "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war."

With the profoundest gratitude should we as a Nation, praise God for families unbroken by war's desolations. Let the grasp of our affections go beyond this to other lands, with all of which we are concerned. They are all our brother men, (oppressed they may be, many of them,) and looking to this land as an asylum. But to whatever land they may belong, buried in ignorance and superstition—possibly—or without the gild and glitter of the old aristocracies, still

"For a' that, and a' that,
It's coming yet for a' that,
That man to man the world o'er
Shall brothers be for a' that."

In view of our national blessings during the past year, let the proclamations of our Chief Magistrates be heeded, and let the people praise their God according to their religious beliefs. In these days when the Asiatic comes with his idols and the European arrives with prejudices growing out of the dead lock between Church and State, when the bible is slipping from our public schools, and the Sabbath is tabooed by the beer-garden, and sage men are arguing, "Are we a Christian nation," and others still are trying to conserve it to Christianity by having some name of Deity imprinted in the Constitution, let us lay hold of this national call to worship.

Let the smith leave his anvil, the farmer his plow, the house-keeper her cares, the merchant his counter, let our artist and our editors and gentlemen of the professions; let freeborn and freedmen, adopted and native citizens, let all the people praise the Lord.

CITIZEN.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Profs Halpruner & Schwendell will hold their regular weekly soiree, corner of Alder and Front streets, next Saturday evening.

To-morrow (Thursday) evening, the Turners of Oregon City will give a ball at Pope's Hall. A number of persons from this city will be present.

Under the management of Messrs. Parrott and Parrish, a soiree will be given next Saturday evening at the Armory of the City Rifles. Admission will be free, but only holders of invitation tickets will be admitted.

The young people of Kalama propose to give a social party at that place to-morrow evening. Music will be furnished by Profs. T. H. Parrott and Chas. Bray, of this city. Prof. C Parrish will call the figures. Doubtless a pleasant time will be experienced.

Baker and Canby Post No. 1, Grand Army of the Republic, will give a complimentary party to their friends at Good Templars' Hall on Thanksgiving Eve, Wednesday, 25th November. The dancing music has been expressly selected and arranged for the occasion, and will be performed by a full and proficient orchestra under the leadership of Prof. H. C. Kay. Prof. Parrish will do the calling. We predict a highly enjoyable affair for the fortunate recipients of invitations. The Committee of Arrangements consist of Comrades George C. Sears, Theodore Barker, G. W. Johnson, C. E. DuBois and Chris. P. Yates.

This evening the members of that sterling old military company, the Emmet Guard, will give their annual ball, at the Masonic Hall. The proceeds of the ball will be applied toward purchasing a new uniform for the company. During the evening a prize valued at $10 will be awarded the lucky holder of a ticket which has a certain number. The company has been unsparing in their efforts to make the forthcoming affair one of the most successful social events of the season. Music will be furnished by a full orchestra, and an experienced caller will officiate. The committees have been selected and will be in attendance, and by every attention possible strive to make guests feel perfectly at home. A large number of tickets have been already disposed of, and a large attendance and pleasant time is confidently expected.

80 PER CENT OF THE FIRST APPROACHES of Consumption that thousands remain unconscious of its presence until it has brought them to the verge of the grave. An immediate resort to Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, at the first appearance of Cough, Pain or Soreness of the Throat or Chest, would very generally preclude a fatal result, or, in case the symptoms indicate the presence of Latent Consumption, would tend to subdue the violence of the disease, and thus materially assist in prolonging the life of the patient. Use the Expectorant therefore when you take a Cold, and by so doing prevent the necessity for its use in more dangerous complaints.

Phlebotomy.

When Dr. Sangrado found his patients weak he gave them water gruel. When they got weaker he bled them and dosed them with calomel and jalap. Gil Blas tells us they almost invariably died. A good many people are killed that way yet. The world in general, however, has found out that, in cases of debility and premature decay, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the true life sustaining cordial. This tonic is a powerful and perfectly harmless restorative. But it does more than invigorate. It regulates and purifies. While it builds up the strength and vitality into the blood, it brings all the secretions into harmony with the laws of health. The feebler sex find it invaluable in the various physical difficulties to which their organization renders them subject. In all hysterical and hypochondrical cases its effect is magical. By it the strength is increased, the appetite preserved, and firmness and elasticity given to the system.

VOICES OF THE DEAD

A few more patches on the mountain-side
A few white foam flakes from the ebbing tide
A few remembered words of malice spent
The record of some dead man's ill intent—
They cannot hurt us all their sting is gone
Their hour of cold and bitterness is done
Yet deepest snows and fiercest lashing seas
Bring not such cold or bitter thoughts as these

A few soiled lilies dropped by childish hands
A few dried organge blossoms from distant lands
A few remembered smiles of some lost friend
Few words of love some dear dead fingers penned
These are not beautiful for love to see
And death's pale presence seems in them to be
Yet never living blooms, most fresh said gay,
Is so with thoughts of love so sweet as they

TAKING UP A COLLECTION

HOW BROTHER JOHNSON MANAGED IT

The Rev. Brother Johnson is quite a noted Methodist preacher of the colored church in Texas. A short time since there was a union religious revival in Chambers county among the colored population and at a meeting at Double Bayou Brother Rivers said he thought it his duty to remind the congregation that the servant was worthy of his hire, and though he was a member of the Baptist Church he felt it his duty to say to his friends that Brother Johnson had worked hard in the good cause and though he was a Methodist preacher, the brothers should give according to their means to aid the support of the reverend brother He then took his seat. Brother Johnson rose and said: I feels highly complimented at the remarks of the dear brother and will say to you all sisters and brothers and brothers and sisters I bless the Lord that I works in his field yet, the mortal body must have things of dis world to live on. I know none of you have much money but you have taters, turnips and things of dat kind dat will help Brother Johnson's mortal body and if you will just speak right out and say what each one can give, Brother Rivers will write it down, so Brother Johnson will know just what to come after and how big a cart to bring along. The collection was made up by some giving corn some potatoes, some turnips all calling out from their seats what they would give Brother Johnson seemed pleased at the amount given as far as it went. He rose and thanked them and said: Now brothers and sisters, you have given liberally wid de tongue, but don't think it is going to end there, for I is coming down here wid a big ox wagon and going around to each one of you wid this paper in my hand and will expect you to come out and help Brother Ox to put these taters bushels and these three bushels and these five bushels and these seven bushels, and all these bushels into dat ox wagon, and I is sure with still be room for more, as I is going to bring a big wagon. Now can't I hear some one say dey will give Brother Johnson a hog or some fit de pigs if dey can't spare a hog. This caused quite a titter among the brothers and sisters and quite a commotion among them as to which should bring a hog. At last one brother said: "Brother Johnson I's got some hogs down in de marsh but I'se got no time to get dem up, but if you can go down dar and catch one and put him in your cart you can have him." Brother Johnson said: Dat is all right brother, dat is succident. Just let Brudda Jones and some odder boys, and I'se gets de biggest one out of dat gang into his ox wagon before you can say Jack Robinson. We will close dis business part of the meeting and go to praying!"

WARNING TO DELINQUENTS

A MAN SLAUGHTERED 160 STRIPED SNAKES, BOWED IN THE BANKING OF HIS HOUSE

(From the Hinds'ville (Minn.) Herald.)

Last spring Will Moody moved out of his log house in Union Grove and it did not become occupied and desolate for several weeks, but last July Ed. Asher moved in the property and moved into the old house to stop only while he could build a new frame house.

He had hardly settled his family in their new quarters before they had a practical demonstration that their old home was not deserted by all its former occupants, for one morning before breakfast Mrs. Asher discovered a huge [illegible] in the house coming across the floor. Then another and another, and then still others, until there were a dozen or more in sight. Mr. Asher was not long in making his appearance on the scene of action, and then the fun commenced. The snakes—the little striped garter snakes!

The first night in the house there was a great rustling on the floor, like the crawling of myriads of mice, but it was not that made the noise. It was the sound from dozens of snakes as they dragged themselves across the floor. Delightful!

In the morning Mr. Asher used to get up shake the reptiles out of his clothes and pick a pitchfork, and pitch the slimy devils out of doors. It was no uncommon thing to slaughter half a dozen in the morning. The second and third days were worse than the first. At breakfast one morning Mr. A. felt something crawling up his leg, and, glancing downward, found a beautiful little striped fellow making his way up in the world. Another time he found a 3 foot fellow in his overcoat pocket who greeted him on his approaching with a friendly hiss.

The nuisance became intolerable. The house was old and the mortar in the chinking had given away in many places and in the evening no wonder was the lamp lighted than a thousands of lesser would begin and nearly every one of the holes would be ornamented with a snake's head. At the end of the fourth day Mr. Asher grasped his shovel and went to the banking of the house, a mass of straw and dirt that had not been moved for several years, and here were their snakeships in all their glory. It was a perfect massacre, for in that banking he found and killed an even hundred garter-snakes. Thirty were found in one nest.

There is a scarcity of the serpent around Mr. A.'s farm now.

THE WONDERFUL DROP ACT

PROF. PHILLIPI COMES NEAR BREAKING HIS NECK

The Reading Eagle gives this as a true statement of Prof. Phillipi's affair in which he nearly broke his acrobatic neck at Churchtown last Saturday. He was engaged in making an ascension there, and had his rope stretched from the academy building to a church opposite. He had walked across, then returned backward, and then ascended forward half way, where his trapeze was swinging. He was about twenty five feet from the ground. He went through his trapeze performances excepting the fearful "drop act," which he is accustomed to do. When performing this blood-curdling feat, one end of the rope broke and down he tumbled head and heels to the earth. We give his own words of the affair: "I was hanging by my toes on the main rope head downward. I let go and dropped through the air until my feet reached the bar. I caught the bar with my toes, when one end of the rope opposite the academy broke, and down I went head foremost to the earth on my face and hands. I sprained my left leg skinned my face and my wrist was out of joint. I had two doctors operating upon me in less than two minutes and about 2,000 people gathered around me who were there to see me walk the rope. They would not let me go home and I had to give a lecture upon my short experience in performing rope walking and legerdemain. I was greatly applauded. I held the lecture in the army. I will not be satisfied until I walk again and give them the drop act on a new rope after I am in a good condition. I am sore all over. My bones pain me and I can hardly do anything. This is the worst thing that has happened me yet but it don't scare me."

PEACE JUBILEE IN ALABAMA.—Montgomery Nov. 11.—One of the most notable features of the grand demonstration last night was the number of United States flags on public and private buildings. Every man who could make beg, borrow or steal the Star Spangled Banner had one floating from his house, and all were greeted with cheers by the people,—10,000 in number. It was the grandest Union demonstration in the South since the war. Some negroes are going about selecting new masters, under the impression that they are to be sold again into slavery. The whites in vain endeavored to reassure them. Conservative blacks mingled with the whites in the procession last night. All rejoiced together. The universal expression is of renewed kindness to the colored race.

PLANNING THE IMPEACHMENT OF KELLOGG.—New Orleans Nov. 11.—The plan of future action now canvassed by the Democratic leaders is that on the re-assembling of the Assembly they will make Mayor Wiltz Speaker recognize the Senators returned by both Returning Boards in 1872 thus giving the Democrats a majority in both Houses, then to impeach Kellogg and his Lieutenant Governor, Antoine, and select Wiltz as Governor. It is believed that the President will then recognize the new Democratic government.

Latest River and Bay advices denote a quiet market. Pacific coast wheat ranged from 88@90c 41 for average and 10s 4d @10s 10d for club per cental. The London market is quoted at 44s 6d per quarter for a cargo quality just shipped and 43s per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown.

The Financial market still remains fairly active and though all paper offering in the market is closely scrutinized accommodations to regular customers of city banks are still furnished at the usual rates. There has been perhaps one third of the surplus grain crop of the country that has changed hands or may be three fifths but not more and the balance is yet unmoved or is stored in warehouses along the lines of transportation. To move this remainder will require a very large sum of money and were it not that heavy drafts are being made on outside and foreign capital our local market could hardly be expected to sustain the pressure which such a demand would produce. Were prices for grain such as to induce producers to sell at all freely it would soon be seen that our local capital would be entirely insufficient to meet the requirements of the legitimate trade.

Advices from the East by mail indicate something of the same condition of affairs in business circles as prevail here. The advance of gold in New York to 111¼ and the special meeting on the 16th of the Directors of the Bank of England to raise the rate of discount to 6 per cent. together with the advance in New York Exchange all point to the renewal of coin shipments to Europe. During the first week in November the treasure shipments from New York to Europe amounted to $828 500. It is noteworthy that this entire amount was in fine silver. The total treasure shipment from that port since January 1st, aggregate $14 363 000. This amount is essentially the same as for the corresponding period last year and nearly $20 000 000 less than in 1872. If there were an active European demand for grain and other produce we should get through the year with less loss of treasure than for a long time. There is a prospect, however that shipments of treasure may be large in the next 45 days.

There are 29 National Banks in Philadelphia with an aggregate capital of less than $14 000 000. The semi annual dividends of the banks for November vary from 2 to 10 per cent and the total amount distributed this month is $688 500. There are some features of interest in connection with these banks. Most of them have a small capital ranging from $100 000 to $500 000. The largest capital is $2 000 000 and only one bank is thus represented. Another has a capital of $1,400 000, and three others have $1 000 000 each. The one with the $2 000 000 capital has paid stockholders 10 per cent. during the year. The one with $1,500 000 capital has paid 11 per cent. The three with $1,000,000 capital each paid 12, 8 and 9 per cent. respectively during the year. These would be considered good dividends but some of the smaller banks in Philadelphia have done even better. They have returned stockholders 20 per cent. during the year. The capital stock of these is $200 000 $250 000 and $500 000 each.

Grain and Provision Reports

Chicago elevators at the commencement of business Nov 9th contained 1 149 776 bushels of wheat 510 383 bushels of corn 415 563 bushels of oats 52 710 bushels of rye and 274 830 bushels of barley making a grand total of 2 403 833 bushels against 3 027 686 bushels one week before and 1 463 638 bushels at this period last year.

Milwaukee warehouses at the close of business on Nov 7 contained 309 201 bushels of wheat 1 483 bushels of corn 34,383 bushels of oats 3,886 bushels of rye, and 76,985 bushels of barley.

The stock of grain in Buffalo elevators Nov 9 was 235 000 bushels of wheat 187 000 bushels of corn 40 000 bushels of oats and 136 000 bushels of barley.

The exports from the leading seaboard ports during the week ending Nov 12th include 6 99[illegible] barrels of flour 413.8 2 bushels of wheat 180 365 bushels of corn 15 872 bushels of peas 29 980 bushels of rye 3 870 barrels of pork, 1 781 288 pounds of lard 1 431 852 pounds of bacon.

Below will be found the amount of grain in sight in the States and Canada October 31, 1874: Wheat, 10 246 106 bushels; corn, 4 684 619 bushels; oats 2 869 154 bushels; barley, 1 913 407 bushels; rye 132, 771 bushels.

Miscellaneous.

San Francisco is soon to have two banks in that city with $5 000 000 capital each. The Bank of California, as is well known, has long been operating on that basis. The Merchants' Exchange Bank will soon advertise a similar amount of capital. Mr. Hayward is believed to have a controlling interest in this bank and can just as well make the capital $5 000 000 as proposed as not. This will give San Francisco two strong and influential banks with a capital of $10 000 000.

The coinage of the United States Mint for the past year is greater than for any year since 1852.

During the year 1872 France sent to the United States a value of $34 7.7 000 in merchandise. Of this amount nearly $2,000 000 was shipped to San Francisco. The character of these imports is of interest. If we are paying France 680 000 000 to 685 000 000 per annum. It is well to know what we are getting for the money. We regret to say that most of this money is spent for articles that ought to be manufactured at home. The principal item is $53,697 000 for silk stuffs, ribbons and trimmings. The next item is $8 947 000 for woolen stuffs ribbons and trimmings. Then comes $4 429 000 for prepared skins and hides, $3 662 000 for wines, $3 661 000 for kid gloves, and $2 708,000 for buttons and other fancy articles usually hawked about by peddlers. Of the value for wine San Francisco paid $437 000.

The likewise trade of the United States during the last fiscal year was about two and one half times greater that the foreign trade.

The ship Centaur recently burned at sea on her way to San Francisco was insured for $46 000 in Boston and Phil[illegible] offices. The cargo was also insured for $30 000. Four of the coal ships recently burned at sea, while on the voyage from Europe to the Pacific ocean were owned in Boston. These are the Queen Mogul Pocahontas and Sierra Nevada. The first and last named were new ships. The destruction of these and three English ships from the same cause excites considerable comment in Boston commercial circles and it is likely that an investigation will be ordered that proper safeguards may be applied for the prevention of similar occurrences on vessels that may hereafter be loaded with coal.

The hop news from the East continues good. As early as the 3d inst., [illegible] were received at New York from London as follows: Large brewers in market heavy purchases considerable excitement, advance in Gr[illegible]y and Almata. On the strength of this news 1,500 bales hops left for England by the steamers of the 4th. Really prime hops were reported scarce in New York and consignments had been sold at 35@36c.

The coffee market both here and in San Francisco exhibits considerable strength despite the weakness noted in New York. There is says a San Francisco exchange, at present no danger of imports from New York for the freight and other expenses would more than make the difference between the current prices in the two markets. Beside lots ordered from the East would not get here much before the first arrivals of the new crop from Central America. At present we know of no import to California before January. We do not look for any further material advance in rates the steady decline in New York acting as a check in that direction. The Brazil crop is said to be large. There is also a good crop in Central America.

The Produce Market

Owing to the failure of the telegraph to communicate any change in the markets of San Francisco or Liverpool if to nothing else to-day has been one of fully as much quiet in grain circles as any for two weeks past. Receipts by rail are less than they were two weeks ago but boats from up the Willamette usually come down with full freights mostly of wheat, which rapidly finds its way into the vessels now loading and hence accumulations at this point are not at all large. We do not see indications in this market at present that purchases are brisk and unless foreign rates are too depressing buyers here would likely take fair lots at full current prices as it is better for them to do this than to allow their vessels to lie here over time. The former quotation of $1 5. per cental for ordinary lots is about the figures given at present, while round or cargo, lots would command at least $1 37½.

The market for other grains than wheat is likewise quiet, buyers paying 87½@88 cents per bushel for oats in sacks and $1 [illegible] for barley.

Eggs are still in fair demand and prices keep well up. Butter is in good supply with chances in favor of a decline. Other products are without change.

Shipping Intelligence

The steamship Oriflamme, now due from San Francisco had not been telegraphed up to a late hour this evening. It is likely she is detained by rough weather in the Bar.

The bark Mattie Maclean with a cargo of Oregon products for the Hawaiian market will drop down the river on Thursday morning and will go to sea in a few days.

The bark Dunsmuir chartered and loaded by Messrs. Corbett & Macleay will vacate her berth and drop down the river this afternoon to complete her cargo on Thursday next.

The bark Semaphor Capt. Walker has now 700 tons of goods on board and will also down the river to morrow when she will receive nearly as much more and sail for Europe.

The bark Dunbar Castle is at the eastside dock where she will receive the remainder of her cargo to be taken on here. She will get off early next week.

The British bark Globe is discharging ballast at Greenwich docks and the Clan Macleod at the Oregon wharf. The latter has taken on enough wheat to stiffen her up as her ballast comes out.

The spleudid ship Zelica hauled up to Allen & Lewis's wharf this morning and began to discharge her ballast of which she carries 700 tons.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations must have extraordinary virtues.—Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation, maintained it so long as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public about forty years by a long continued series of marvellous cures that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs Colds Consumption than can be made by inferior skill. Indeed Cherry Pectoral has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness suffering and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.
